COSLA Email of 27 January 2016

Hi Ned,

With regards to the practice of scanning of dead pets COSLA does not hold any data on how widespread this practice is, further consultation should be done with local authorities on normal and best practice regarding this. Any requirement for local authorities to undertake this task would need to be accompanied by full resources for staff, equipment and training.

I hope the Committee finds the above contributions useful to its deliberations.

Regards,
